Bankers Continue to Advise That America Presents the Best Field for the Investing Public.

[By Cable to The Tribune,] Lordon, June 15 .- The stock markets ended the week cheerfully and with a reacral, though only slight, improvepent all around. The final stages of the settlement passed in a comparative gnoothness, which tended to arouse hopes that the end of the slump has wen seen and that better prices and note cheerful feeling may be looked for in the near future.

The market remains almost strictly professional, however, and in spite of the prevailing exceedingly low prices sloof and continuing the waiting attiade which has characterized it for so many months. There has been a lot of manipulation in the cotton market in the last week, old crop shorts being the victims of a forced covering movement in July and August contracts. Local and Liverpoo interests were engaged in the movement, which had for its foundation the shortage of local contract stocks, caused by the shipment of about 60,000 bales taken up on May contracts, with 19,000 bales added from later deals.

The report of the Census Bureau showed an unexpectedly well sustained volume of domestic mill consumption. During May the mills consumed 510,416 bales, comparing with 603,677 during April, and reduced their stocks from 1,746,611 to dock Tuesday forenoon. bales at the end of April to 1,505,257 bales by the end of May. Should the present rate of consumption continue, the domestic mills had about enough cotton or hand June 1 to supply requirements for three months, and should they allow their stocks to run down to only a month's needs, they would still need to take about 500,000 bales between now and September

Coffee's Heavy Decline.

Except for a solitary spasm of reaction on Friday, the coffee market has done little more than make new low records for the week, and at the close of trading was weak and unsettled. The whole fut ure list has gone into the 9-cent field and even spots have shown a material reduction. Large roasting concerns are credited with having sold coffee, some depression has been caused by roasters refusing to take other names on September trading and let commission houses out on their contracts. It is admitted that supplies, present and prospective, are ample, and, with Kaiser F Jose foreign markets practically demoralized on Saturday, with sales reaching large figures, there was absolutely nothing to hold the market up to the gain of Fri day. The result was that the short session was extremely active; at its close what little confidence had been shown bold enough to predict an immediate Santa Clara, Hav. Am-Cub was undermined, and there was no one change for the better. The weakness Brazil, where cost and freight offers at lower figures have been taken up, and the slump in European markets, which were selled here. The drop in potatoes and the steadiness

The drop in potatocs and the steadiness of butter and eggs, quantities of which are going into storage, have been the features of the country produce markets.

New Orlean, S.P. fused or condemned in the last week as being below the standard. There is a good market here for really good stuff, good market here for really good stuff, but it seems hard for some producers to get over the idea that any old thing will go in New York if it is only a little ahead of the regular season. This applies to vegetables as well as the small fruus and is constantly being verified.

Livestock and dressed meat prices have gone steadily though not heavily upward in the last week, except mutton and lamb, which have held unchanged, while live lambs have gone up more than $1 \text{ a hundredweight.} Other changes have been fractional.

The general trend of prices in the week has been upward, The Tribune's tabulation of twenty-four articles showing that the spot wholesals cost mas advanced in fourteen instances, declined in five and remained stationary in the same number.
